Course content

The course comprises an in-depth orientation in literary texts in English, analysing different literary and historical epochs in dialogue with various theoretical perspectives. The course may be included as part of the Master's Course in English, 60 ECTS credits.

Teaching and working methods

Teaching takes the form of lectures and compulsory seminars. Furthermore, the student is to carry out independent studies.

The medium of instruction and examination: English.

Examination

This course is examined through a combination of active seminar participation, written assignments and an independent written paper.

At least a pass/participated on each part of the course is required to pass the course. In addition, a pass with distinction is required for the written paper in order to pass the whole course with distinction.

Detailed information about the form and content of the examination can be found in the course study guide.

If special circumstances prevail, and if it is possible with consideration of the nature of the compulsory component, the examiner may decide to replace the compulsory component with another equivalent component.

If the LiU coordinator for students with disabilities has granted a student the right to an adapted examination for a written examination in an examination hall, the student has the right to it.

If the coordinator has recommended for the student an adapted examination or alternative form of examination, the examiner may grant this if the examiner assesses that it is possible, based on consideration of the course objectives.

An examiner may also decide that an adapted examination or alternative form of examination if the examiner assessed that special circumstances prevail, and the examiner assesses that it is possible while maintaining the objectives of the course.

Students failing an exam covering either the entire course or part of the course twice are entitled to have a new examiner appointed for the reexamination.

Students who have passed an examination may not retake it in order to improve their grades.

Grades

Three-grade scale, U, G, VG

Other information

Planning and implementation of a course must take its starting point in the wording of the syllabus. The course evaluation included in each course must therefore take up the question how well the course agrees with the syllabus.

The course is conducted in such a way that there are equal opportunities with regard to sex, transgender identity or expression, ethnicity, religion or other belief, disability, sexual orientation and age.

If special circumstances prevail, the vice-chancellor may in a special decision specify the preconditions for temporary deviations from this course syllabus, and delegate the right to take such decisions.
