- have developed broad knowledge and understanding of the functions and tools of image creation,
- have developed skills in determining and describing images and buildings in speech and writing, as well as a familiarity with different methods for interpretation and analysis,
- have achieved ability to carry a reasoning argument in speech and writing and critically reflect on relevant facts based on scientific, social and ethical aspects of the subject.

Course content

Art History from Prehistoric Times to the Beginning of the 15th Century, 7.5 HE credits (Konstens historia från äldsta tid fram till ca 1400)
This module covers aspects on the earliest human cultural manifestations through study of, for example Palaeolithic cave images. More extensive studies will be devoted to visual art and architecture in the Mediterranean and the state formations of the Near East, from the first high cultures in Mesopotamia and Egypt until the Roman imperial time. An overview is also given of image production and building in Europe during the millennium when these activities to a great extent were in service of the church.

Art History from the 15th Century to the Middle of the 18th Century, 7.5 HE credits (Konstens historia från ca 1400 till ca 1750)
This module covers the aesthetics and functions of the image and the architecture from the time of the emergence of the Renaissance ideas in Italy until the Rococo tendencies of the 18th century. The important art theory shifts and the changed role of artists in society are discussed. The development of state constructions and environmental design is also studied, as well as handicraft and development of graphical techniques.

Art History from the Middle of the 18th to the 20th Century, 7.5 HE credits (Konstens historia från ca 1750 till ca 1900)
This module gives an overview of the most important style trends in art from neo-classicism to Art Nouveau at the turn of the century. The fields that are discussed are the changed conditions of designing through the artist emancipation and the development of the art market and exhibition life, the struggle between academism and Modernism, and the importance for architecture and urban development of the technical development. The course also covers both the origin and history of photography and breakthrough of the mass-produced image.

Art History from the 20th Century until Today, 7.5 HE credits (Konstens historia från ca 1900 till idag)
This module closely examines the efforts and groupings of important individual artists, as well as the theoretical conditions of different art movements from the break-through of Fauvism and Expressionism in 1905 until today. Also studied is the architecture, environmental formation and design and the art concept of the 20th century. The course gives perspectives on mass media images of different kinds, popular images, advertising and propaganda.

Teaching and working methods

During the course, teaching takes the form of lectures. Also included are seminars, group work, practical exercises and study visits, which within the framework of the student's efforts includes preparations for discussions and studying the course literature. Seminars, practical exercises and study visits are compulsory parts.

Examination

The modules are examined separately through written examinations, take-home examinations or continuous written and group assignments, as well as through active participation in compulsory parts.

If special circumstances prevail, and if it is possible with consideration of the nature of the compulsory component, the examiner may decide to replace the compulsory component with another equivalent component.

If the LiU coordinator for students with disabilities has granted a student the right to an adapted examination for a written examination in an examination hall, the student has the right to it.

If the coordinator has recommended for the student an adapted examination or alternative form of examination, the examiner may grant this if the examiner assesses that it is possible, based on consideration of the course objectives.

An examiner may also decide that an adapted examination or alternative form of examination if the examiner assessed that special circumstances prevail, and the examiner assesses that it is possible while maintaining the objectives of the course.

Students failing an exam covering either the entire course or part of the course twice are entitled to have a new examiner appointed for the reexamination.

Students who have passed an examination may not retake it in order to improve their grades.

Grades

Three-grade scale, U, G, VG

Other information

Planning and implementation of a course must take its starting point in the wording of the syllabus. The course evaluation included in each course must therefore take up the question how well the course agrees with the syllabus.

The course is carried out in such a way that both men's and women's experience and knowledge is made visible and developed.

If special circumstances prevail, the vice-chancellor may in a special decision specify the preconditions for temporary deviations from this course syllabus, and delegate the right to take such decisions.
