Course content

In the course we introduce strategies for managing digital innovation. The course covers basic concepts of digital transformation in society and organization based on technological advancements and new techniques such as analysis of large datasets, blockchain and artificial intelligence. The course also covers digital entrepreneurship and digital business models by focusing on work with the UN's 17 global sustainability goals as a starting point for driving digital innovation from initial testing to implementation.

Teaching and working methods

The teaching consists of lectures, workshops, seminars, supervision and project work. In addition, the student should conduct self-study.

Teaching and examination language: English

Examination

The course is examined through:

- individual written essay, grading scale: EC
- written group project, grading scale: EC (P/F)
- active participation in seminars: EC (P/F)
- active participation in workshops: EC (P/F)

For a final grade of E (Pass), at least E is required in the individual written essay, and Pass in the remaining sections. A higher final grade is based on the grade in the individual written assignment.

Detailed information can be found in the course's study guide.

If special circumstances prevail, and if it is possible with consideration of the nature of the compulsory component, the examiner may decide to replace the compulsory component with another equivalent component.

If the LiU coordinator for students with disabilities has granted a student the right to an adapted examination for a written examination in an examination hall, the student has the right to it.

If the coordinator has recommended for the student an adapted examination or alternative form of examination, the examiner may grant this if the examiner assesses that it is possible, based on consideration of the course objectives.

An examiner may also decide that an adapted examination or alternative form of examination if the examiner assessed that special circumstances prevail, and the examiner assesses that it is possible while maintaining the objectives of the course.

Students failing an exam covering either the entire course or part of the course twice are entitled to have a new examiner appointed for the reexamination.

Students who have passed an examination may not retake it in order to improve their grades.

Other information

Planning and implementation of a course must take its starting point in the wording of the syllabus. The course evaluation included in each course must therefore take up the question how well the course agrees with the syllabus.

The course is conducted in such a way that there are equal opportunities with regard to sex, transgender identity or expression, ethnicity, religion or other belief, disability, sexual orientation and age.

If special circumstances prevail, the vice-chancellor may in a special decision specify the preconditions for temporary deviations from this course syllabus, and delegate the right to take such decisions.

About teaching and examination language

The teaching language is presented in the Overview tab for each course. The examination language relates to the teaching language as follows:

- If teaching language is “Swedish”, the course as a whole could be given in Swedish, or partly, or as a whole, in English. Examination language is Swedish, but parts of the examination can be in English.
- If teaching language is “English”, the course as a whole is taught in English. Examination language is English.
- If teaching language is “Swedish/English”, the course as a whole will be taught in English if students without prior knowledge of the Swedish language participate. Examination language is Swedish or English depending on teaching language.
