Intended learning outcomes

After completion of the course, the student should at an advanced level be able to

- independently prioritize, and evaluate information to perform a specific analytical assignment within Environmental Science
- systematically analyse, process and evaluate data in the analytical assignment and relate the analyse to relevant research
- communicate the process and results of the analytical assignment in writing

Course content

The course is conducted as an individual internship at an external organization within the field of Environmental Science with focus to perform a relevant analytical assignment. The contact person at the external organization should design the assignment, in communication with the student, and support the student during the internship. The course supervisor must approve the assignment before the student commences the course.

Teaching and working methods

The teaching and working methods are internship and individual writing of a report. The student is responsible for finding the external organization where the internship will be performed. The internship can be in Sweden or abroad.
Language of Instruction: English

Examination

The course is examined through an individual written report and completed internship. Detailed information can be found in the course's study guide.

If the LiU coordinator for students with disabilities has granted a student the right to an adapted examination for a written examination in an examination hall, the student has the right to it. If the coordinator has instead recommended for the student an adapted examination or alternative form of examination, the examiner may grant this if the examiner assesses that it is possible, based on consideration of the course objectives.

Students failing an exam covering either the entire course or part of the course twice are entitled to have a new examiner appointed for the reexamination.

Students who have passed an examination may not retake it in order to improve their grades.

Grades

ECTS, EC

Other information

Planning and implementation of a course must take its starting point in the wording of the syllabus. The course evaluation included in each course must therefore take up the question how well the course agrees with the syllabus.

The course is carried out in such a way that both men's and women's experience and knowledge is made visible and developed.
